Political Science / Civics & Citizenship Political Science / Public Policy / Economic Policy Social Science / Social Classes & Economic Disparity Over the past fifty years, our economy has been pulling us apart at unprecedented rates by allowing the richest Americans to hoard wealth like almost never before. In Our Fair Share, Brian C. Johnson combines accessible scholarship on wealth and income inequity with stories of real people struggling to survive and thrive in America today to lay the groundwork for a reasonable and actionable solution. Dubbed the Citizen Dividend, this revolutionary model assumes that economic growth is built off of the wealth we have created together as a country, and together we all reap its benefits.

BRIAN C. JOHNSON has served in education and advocacy, community organizing, and political activism at local and national levels for two decades, dedicated to the American promise of fairness for all. He's been featured on CNN and in The Washington Post, USA Today, and The New York Times. Johnson currently serves as the CEO of Equality Illinois, one of the nation's most successful LGBTQ civil rights organizations. He lives with his family in Chicago, Illinois.

Religion / Religion, Politics & State Political Science / Civil Rights Social Science / Discrimination America is at a pivotal spiritual and political crossroads. A new public narrative is needed to counter the discord in our politics and culture, a new way forward rooted in Martin Luther King Jr.'s vision of the Beloved Community. In A More Perfect Union, Adam Russell Taylor, president of Sojourners, calls for a shared moral vision that transcends partisanship to live out our nation's best ideals and realize a more perfect union.

REV. ADAM RUSSELL TAYLOR is president of Sojourners, an ecumenical Christian organization that works to advance justice and peace. He previously led the Faith Initiative at the World Bank Group, served as Vice President of Advocacy at World Vision U.S., was cofounder and executive director of Global Justice, and was selected as a White House Fellow under the Obama administration. A graduate of the Harvard University Kennedy School of Government and of the Samuel DeWitt Proctor School of Theology, Taylor is ordained in the American Baptist Church and the Progressive National Baptist Convention and serves at the Alfred Street Baptist Church in Alexandria, Virginia.

In Baptized in Tear Gas, minister and activist Elle Dowd invites readers to experience her transformation from what Martin Luther King Jr. referred to as "the white moderate" into an Assata Shakur-reading, courthouse-occupying abolitionist. Like in baptism, this alteration requires parts of us to die-our tone policing, white niceness, respectability politics-so that we may be reborn. Through the Uprising in Ferguson, God made Elle into something new. Now it's our turn.

ELLE DOWD is a bisexual candidate for ministry in the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. She was radicalized in St. Louis, where she learned from the revolutionary, queer, Black leadership during the Ferguson Uprising. She was formerly a co-conspirator with the movement to #decolonizeLutheranism and currently organizes as a faith leader with SOUL in Chicago, serves on the board of Euro-Descent Lutherans for Racial Justice, writes regularly for the Disrupt Worship Project, and facilitates workshops on gender, sexuality, and the church. She lives in Chicago with her spouse and two Sierra Leonean daughters.

Travel / Essays & Travelogues Biography & Autobiography / Personal Memoirs Photography / Subjects & Themes / Portraits & Selfies Frustrated with an increasingly polarized society, awardwinning photographer John Noltner set out on a road trip across the US to rediscover the common humanity that connects us by asking people the simple question "What does peace mean to you?" Through striking photographs and real-world stories, Portraits of Peace offers a uniquely human and accessible approach to conversations about the social issues that most challenge us today, creating a road map to a more peaceful future.

JOHN NOLTNER is a gifted storyteller and photographer who has worked on four continents, gathering accounts of human courage, grace, and resilience. His work has appeared in National Geographic Traveler, Forbes, Midwest Living, and New York Daily News. His series A Peace of My Mind has been produced as two award-winning books and four exhibits for presentations such as the Nobel Peace Prize Forum and the Gandhi-King Conference on Nonviolence. Originally from Bloomington, Minnesota, John has taken his life on the road fulltime in search of stories of hope, healing, and transformation.

Be the Brave One

Living Your Spiritual Values Out Loud and Other Life Lessons

ANN KANSFIELD

The first openly gay chaplain for the New York Fire Department and the inaugural New York Times New Yorker of the Year, Ann Kansfield animates her story of leaving behind life as a "run-of-the-mill capitalist jerk" while guiding and challenging readers to discover and live out their own spiritual values.

Memoirs Biography & Autobiography / Religious Self-Help / Personal Growth / Happiness Wife, mother, pastor, chaplain, and spiritual leader—this is how Ann Kansfield describes herself today. But not long ago her life looked very different. An Ivy league grad and broker at one of the biggest firms on Wall Street, Kansfield was a rising star in a capitalist world. Be the Brave One is her quirky, down-to-earth account of learning to live her spiritual values, a narrative that challenges and invites readers to examine their own.

REV. ANN KANSFIELD was voted the inaugural New York Times New Yorker of the Year and is the first female and openly gay FDNY chaplain. A graduate of Columbia University, Kansfield followed the Ivy League crowd to Wall Street, until 9/11 happened and she realized she wanted more from life. She serves as co-pastor of the Greenpoint Reformed Church in Brooklyn, New York, with her wife, Rev. Jennifer Aull.

Messy Minimalism

Realistic Strategies for the Rest of Us

Drowning in clutter and a crazy schedule, Rachelle Crawford assumed you had to be naturally organized to be tidy. Then she found messy minimalism, which is less about perfection and more about purpose. With empathy and humor, Crawford lays out strategies for curbing consumption, decluttering, and finding lots more joy. Becoming a messy minimalist is not about pristine countertops. It's simply about carrying fewer things so that we find ourselves holding only what truly matters.

RACHELLE CRAWFORD curates the popular website Abundant Life with Less, where she makes minimalism doable by sharing inspiration and practical strategies for living with less stuff and more purpose. Her writing has been featured on Becoming Minimalist, (In)Courage, Raising Simple, and Becoming Unbusy. Crawford and her husband live with their three children in the suburbs of Lansing, Michigan.

Body, Mind & Spirit / Mindfulness & Meditation Self-Help / Spiritual Religion / Prayer Christine Valters Paintner introduces us to the spiritual practice of breath prayer and offers beautiful poem-prayers for walking, working, dressing, cleaning, sitting in silence, doing the dishes, living in community—breathing the divine into our daily lives. Over time these recitations become as natural as breathing. We don't so much recite the prayers as the prayers recite us, guide us, and open our hearts to the everyday sacred.

CHRISTINE VALTERS PAINTNER is the online abbess at the Abbey of the Arts, a virtual global monastery without walls. A writer, artist, spiritual director, retreat facilitator, and teacher, she earned her PhD in Christian spirituality from the Graduate Theological Union at Berkeley and is a Registered Expressive Arts

One Life to Give

Martyrdom and the Making of the American Revolution

JOHN FANESTIL

One Life to Give explores the spiritual origins of the American Revolution: martyrdom. John Fanestil traces the deep history of the tradition of martyrdom from its classical and Christian origins to the onset of the Revolutionary War. Ultimately, he articulates how the tradition of American martyrdom animated countless personal commitments to American independence, and thereby to the war. Only by understanding the inextricable role played by martyrdom can we fully grasp the origins of the American Revolution.

There Is No God and Mary Is His Mother

Rediscovering Religionless Christianity

THOMAS CATHCART

In this personal, witty, and timely book, New York Times bestselling author Thomas Cathcart takes readers on a journey into belief and unbelief and leads them through to "religionless Christianity." Drawing from deep philosophical and theological wells, There Is No God and Mary Is His Mother shows that, even absent traditional theological formulas and doctrines, Christianity can be a credible, meaningful, and practical means of negotiating worldly existence and experience. The Herods

Murder, Politics, and the Art of Succession

BRUCE CHILTON

In The Herods, Bruce Chilton sets out the full sweep of Herodian rule, from the time of Herod the Great's father, Antipater, until the dynastic sunset, when Emperor Titus attempted to marry Bereniké, Herod's great-granddaughter. Throughout, the narrative brings out the theocratic aims that motivated Herod and his progeny, their competitors, Roman rulers, and the many different groups and factions within Judaism and Christianity that often defined themselves in opposition to the Herodian project.

Toni Morrison's Spiritual Vision

Faith, Folktales, and Feminism in Her Life and Literature

NADRA KAREEM NITTLE

Toni Morrison's Spiritual Vision unpacks an oft-ignored but essential element of Toni Morrison's work—her religion—and in so doing gives readers a deeper, richer understanding of her life and her writing. As Nadra Nittle's wide-ranging, deep exploration of Morrison's oeuvre reveals, to fully understand Morrison's work, one must also understand the role of religion and spirituality in her life and literature.

A Black Man's Encounter with Racism and the Forbidden Word in an American Classic

JAMES HENRY HARRIS

This book is about a Black man's experience of reading Mark Twain's classic Adventures of Huckleberry Finn for the first time while in graduate school. It captures the author's emotional struggle with Twain's use of the racial epithet nigger more than 211 times in the text. In these pages, Harris challenges his instructor and classmates and inspires readers to redress the long history of American racism and white supremacy bound up with the N word.

Black Hands, White House

The Enslaved Community That Built the Nation's Capital

RENEE K. HARRISON

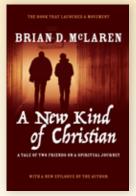

The book bears witness to the role enslaved, Black-bodied people played in building the US, its physical and fiscal infrastructure, and the nation's capital, and calls for a substantial monument on the National Mall to affirm and document their contributions. This book will impact lives by adding significantly to the burgeoning and indepth conversations on racial disparity, race relations, history-making, reparations, and monument erection and removal.

Praise for Our Recent Titles

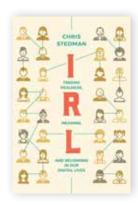

"This lyrical testament to life as 'a blind date with mercy' will challenge and inspire."

-Publishers Weekly, Starred Review

"...This is a jarring and persuasive exploration of the mechanisms that make abuse possible. Allison's persuasive testament will resonate with readers of a Christian background in ways that both comfort and disturb."

-Publishers Weekly

"Even without the pandemic, IRL would be a vital read, a thoughtful examination of our perpetually 'logged on' existence, and a measured critique of the social systems that define our time online."

—AVClub.com

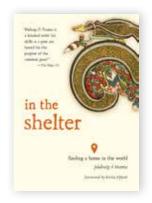

"By engaging in this lively discourse, readers will gain a steady sense of how to dwell more deeply within-and even to love-this despairing and radiant world."

> —Englewood Review of Books, Starred Review

"Essential reading." —Marie Claire

"In the Shelter is Pádraig Ó Tuama's meditation on the power of breaking free from our false stories into a truer story, into arms that love us, one small conversion at a time."

-Publishers Weekly, Starred Review
